

Please do not weaken Wisconsin's No Call law. As I understand it, it is being proposed that a lending institution be allowed to continue contacting a previous customer for 18 months after termination of services. In my opinion, the customer is stating loudly and clearly that he/she is no longer interested in their services. The question becomes why should the former customer be harassed when their actions have made it perfectly clear that further contact is neither desired or needed.